

We would like to alert you to the fact that a bug in CGAP Production is causing budget figures on form pages 4 and 5 of the grant image, as well as on the modular budget justification page, to come in with decimal precision to two places. As a result, on the modular budget pages, the numbers are wrapping so that part of the number appears on the next line.

For instance, the number $200,000.00 will appear as:

0

We are working on fixing it so that the decimal portion does not appear, but are concerned at the same time that releasing new software on an application receipt date (June 1) may affect other parts of the application and would be unwise.

Therefore, we do not plan to correct it for the June 1 receipt date. We do want to assure you, however, that the Center for Scientific Review plans to alert reviewers to this problem.

We apologize for this situation. Rest assured that even though the numbers may wrap around, this is not going to affect the review of your application.
